

GDPR information

Website

Personal data are collected at www.radarbolaget.com.

Collection of information

Radarbolaget collect information from you when you choose to contact us through our forms – quote, contact, and request of brochures. Quote and contact forms collect data through json-forms and send it as an e-mail to Radarbolaget. At request of brochures, personal data are collected in Mailchimp CRM (www.mailchimp.com). In the Mailchimp form, you will be asked how you want to be contacted from Radarbolaget. The information we collect about you is name, company, email, and phone number (the fields you have chosen to fill out in the forms).

Use of information and purpose

The information we collect from you is used to contact you by telephone or e-mail to be able to perform the service or help you requested via our website. We will never transfer your personal data to another party.

Cookies

We use cookies to improve the experience on our website by following your behavior on the site. The information we save is your IP address, your position, your computer, and your browser. The information we receive from cookies cannot be linked to any type of personal data.

Delete personal information

You can contact us at any time to find out what personal information we have saved about you or if you want your personal data deleted.

Yours sincerely, Patrik Ottosson
Managing director and responsible for GDPR
